

Word@Work

project-based literacy and numeracy

Playford Alive in partnership with Infuse, DFEEST's Adult Community Education Program and the City of Playford is delivering the Word@Work initiative.

Word@Work is a 12-week industry based program providing the stepping-stones to lead participants into further education or employment. This program will tackle literacy and numeracy through hands-on project based delivery.

Aimed at people aged 17 years and over from the Playford Alive and the City of Playford community, each project is structured on two industry sectors.

Furthermore, an underlying cornerstone of Word@Work is integrating healthy lifestyle principles into every session, including the final event.

Assisting participants in accessing other learning-related services, Word@Work is an ideal learning environment for personal and professional development.
